Forbidden Lessons in a Kabul Guesthouse: The True Story of One Woman Who R

Forbidden Lessons in a Kabul Guesthouse is an inspirational memoir by Suraya Sadeed, an Afghan woman who fled her country during the Taliban regime.

She made a happy and successful life for herself in Virginia with her husband and child. Then in the wake of 9/11, she was accused of being a terrorist and was deported back to Afghanistan.

A true heroine, she smuggled herself across borders in various disguises, braved warlords and set up underground schools for girls.

Once back in America she founded Help the Afghan Children, a charity that over 17 years has raised millions of dollars to help Afghan children.
